

SVS BROWN SHIPLEY DYNAMIC FUND

Factsheet to 31 December 2025

Fund Objective

The Fund aims to achieve growth through a combination of capital and income over the long term (at least ten years). The Fund will invest, directly and indirectly, in a mixture of shares and fixed interest securities (being sovereign, investment grade and non-investment grade bonds). The allocation between the shares and fixed interest securities in which the Fund invests will be actively managed and will vary in response to short term market conditions. However, the Fund operates a dynamic strategy, meaning that the allocation to shares will remain within a 70% to 100% range, with a focus on higher risk, growth based assets. The Fund excludes issuers that derive more than 10% of revenue from thermal coal extraction or power generation, those that are involved in controversial weapons, issuers subject to EU arms embargoes and those that are deemed in violation of the UN Global Compact principles for over 3 years. In addition, the Fund integrates environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors in its investment process.

Commentary

Markets posted modest gains in December, helped by stronger performance in Europe and Asia while U.S. equities lagged. Defensive assets, particularly gold, continued to benefit from risk-averse investor demand and delivered strong returns.

Equity markets made steady progress in December, with stronger gains in Europe and Asia Pacific ex-Japan as performance widened geographically and sector-wise beyond U.S. mega-caps. U.S. equities struggled partly due to volatility in the technology sector and mixed investor sentiment. Cyclical and value sectors outperformed across several regions.

In terms of individual stocks, over the month we exited our position in Sika as currency pressures, weaker Chinese demand, delayed infrastructure stimulus, premium valuations, and lowered growth expectations weaken its defensive qualities and limit future returns. We sold Agilent Technologies due to its smaller scale, higher China exposure, and slower expected earnings growth. We reallocated proceeds toward the defence sector by adding Rheinmetall to our portfolio, where we see stronger and more attractive risk-return prospects. The company is a prime beneficiary of Germany's and NATO's rearmament programs.

Additionally, we took some profits from Japan equities on the back of strong performance driven more by valuation expansion than earnings growth, unlike in the U.S., where earnings remain the primary driver. Finally, we increased our exposure to emerging-market equities, supported by attractive valuations, improving Chinese growth and a weaker U.S. dollar, while also providing diversification beyond the dominant AI theme.

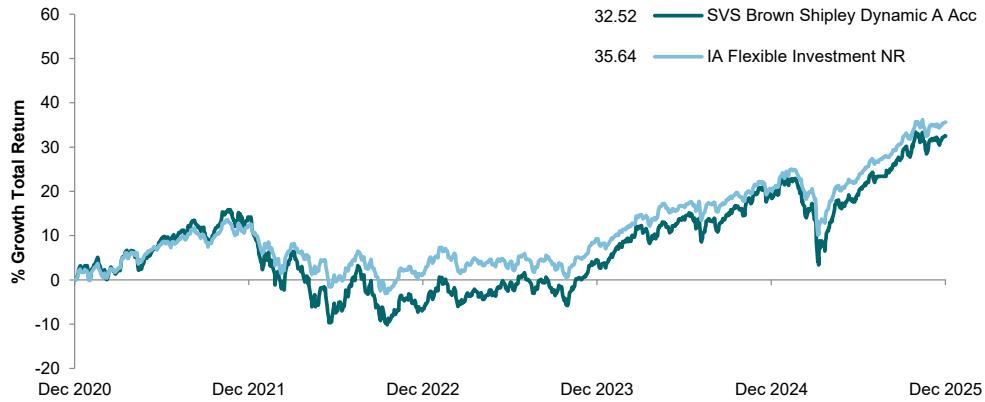

The portfolio continues with a moderate tactical preference for equities versus bonds compared to our long term strategic asset allocation.

Investment Risks - This fund predominately gains exposure to higher risk UK and international growth based assets through investment in other investment funds whose individual risk profile may not match that of the Dynamic fund, while exposure to UK markets is generally through direct equity holdings. Global currency fluctuations contribute to fluctuations in the value of the investment. Investment Trusts, Sovereign Bonds and Structured Products do not represent significant holdings but where used carry specific investment risks; with structured products there is a risk of insolvency of the underlying issuer, while Investment Trusts may borrow to invest and, where borrowing is used, the gains or losses in those underlying investments are exaggerated. The value of bonds are affected by relative movements in interest rates. Please refer to the Key Investor Information Document and the fund prospectus for further fund information.
